

Caleb Donaldson is Senior Copyright Counsel at Google. He joined the company eleven years ago, after working in tech-focused copyright and trademark litigation at Winston & Strawn. He also served as a law clerk for Judge Jeffrey Howard on the United States First Circuit Court of Appeals. Prior to his legal career, Caleb built some of the world's first websites; he was on the launch teams for both Wired magazine's website and cnet.com. He received an undergraduate degree in philosophy from Yale University and his law degree from Harvard Law School.